EIGHT HOUR DAY AND

BETTER WORKING CONDITIONS.

Executive Officers of A. F. of L. to Confer With Factory Owners.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Executive officers of the metal trades division of the American Federation of Labor determined today to seek conferences with owners and financial backers of the industrial plants involved in the campaign which union machinists and other workers have launched for an eight hour day and better working conditions.

"We shall arrange to hold conferences of the men who own the factories and who finance them," said James O'Connell, president of the metal trades division. "We believe that it is well first to try to secure an agreement for a shorter work day and better conditions peacefully before we resort to strikes. Our idea is to arrange meetings with the financiers in New York and other industrial centers."

The executive council of the International Association of Machinists met today with the metal trades officers for an eight hour day. Further consideration will be given to the plans tomorrow.

Her husband laid down his paper and smiled benignly.

"I did that," he said, calmly. Then, in answer to a questioning look, he went on: "You tried up my dress so beautifully the other day that I thought it only fair to return the compliment. So I tidied up your sewing-room."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

LADIES' DAY AT CHELSEA LODGE

Fourth Annual Event of the Chelsea Boat Club at Scotch Cap on Tuesday With a Large Attendance—Races and Chowder Followed by a Delightful Moonlight Sail Up the River.

Chelsea lodge at Scotch Cap on the Thames was the center of attraction for a gathering of 65 members of the Chelsea Boat club and friends on Tuesday afternoon for the fourth annual "Ladies' Day." Ten boatloads of people went down the river during the afternoon in the club owned by various members of the club and others went down on land by afternoon trolleys in time to enjoy the events on the river and the chowder in the clubhouse that followed the aquatic programme.

The races were started at 4 o'clock and the first big event was the four mile handicap race in which eight of the motor boats were entered. George W. Guard led the line of craft for first honors and prize, which was an oilskin coat. Percival Chapman took the second prize, a handsome yacht design.

The relay race was another interesting event for the power craft and the trio of boats owned by George W. Guard, William G. Baker and Don A. Houghton took the first prize. Dr. Frank Harold, Harold Fretter and W. A. Norton were second and Frank D. Sevin, C. C. Smith and Percival Chapman finished third. The prizes for

MORE LAURELS FOR MAHAN.

He Worked Arduously for Development of the Navy Yard.

During his visit in New London Monday, Secretary of the Navy Joseph Daniels strongly intimated that the New London Day that had it not been for former Congressman Mahan there would have been no navy yard here out of which to create a submarine station. Secretary Daniels' first words of greeting to Postmaster Mahan indicated his recollection of the former's efforts to promote the welfare of the New London naval base while a member of the house of representatives.

In the early days of Congressman Mahan's term, a bill came up which proposed to abolish the New London navy yard, together with several other similar stations. Mr. Mahan immediately introduced an active opposition to this particular section of the bill. Evidently the clause referring to the New London yard was dropped from the bill. Thus by a close call the plant now to be converted into a submarine station was saved.

Subsequently Congress passed a bill to appropriate $1,000,000 for the establishment of a steel armor plate plant at the navy yard. No action has ever been taken on this project and of course in view of the submarine station coming, none now will be.

Coming on the location of the submarine station here, former Congressman Mahan said Tuesday: "I am deeply gratified at the action of Secretary Daniels in marking it as one more proof of the marked ability he has shown in his official duties. For years I have felt that the important work he has done for the navy has not been properly presented to the department at Washington for it seemed to me that if its advantages were fully understood it would be 'no delay in making use of it.'"

"When elected to congress I took it upon myself to do everything possible for the preservation and development of the New London station, realizing, I think, the great importance to Connecticut of such a base. I am inclined to believe that Secretary Daniels' life almost unbearable for a time. Naturally, therefore, it is very pleasing to me that the yard has been saved, but it is to be greatly increased in the extent of its use."

LAUNDRYMAN IN JAIL.

Seventy-year Old Chinese Charged with Assaulting 13-year Old Girl.

Kwong Ning, a New London laundryman, who was arrested last week in the police court Tuesday forenoon charged with having committed a felonious assault upon Mary Smith, 13 years old, daughter of Max Snitkin, a cobbler on Bank street.

Attorneys Hollander and Arthur Alderson, of the Stratford, Conn., appeared as counsel for Kwong Ning and the former made a statement to the court to the effect that he and his wife had been in the laundry since late yesterday afternoon and that they had not had time to confer with their client, so it was asked that the case should be held a few days for a conference with Kwong Ning.

The date fixed for the hearing was next Saturday. A bond of $3,000 was fixed for the appearance of Kwong Ning, but he could not furnish a surety and went to jail.

The accused was in court and they endeavor to get surety by which Kwong may be released next Saturday if probable cause for the charge is shown. He was held in the superior court at the September term.

The Snitkin child was not in court Wednesday and the case was held such that it was not deemed prudent to have her there. Doctors will visit her at her home with the consent of her parents to determine her condition.

ESCAPED FROM STATE HOSPITAL.

One Man Got Away Monday and Another Brought Back Tuesday.

One escaped patient has been restored to the Norwich State hospital this week and another inmate has made good his unlooked for exit from the institution.

On Monday morning Vincenzo Loggindice, an Italian about 40 years of age, was out working on a road at the local station. The men were somewhat scattered and Loggindice had gotten quite a start before he was missed. Monday afternoon a "look to see" was taken for him, appearing into a strip of woods above the hospital.

London's Oldest Farm.

There can be but few farm buildings in London which have survived from the seventeenth century. One stands on a farm which the London County Council is acquiring to provide a much needed extension at Cane Hill. The building is past repair, and in consequence will be demolished. Provision has been made for the building to be the Council of any articles of historic or intrinsic value which may be found in the course of the work.—Pall Mall Gazette.

BAD YEAR FOR FARMERS.

Secretary Healey's Statement Says Worst in 25 Years.

Leonard H. Healey, secretary of the state board of agriculture, has sent out a printed statement giving information in regard to the estimated quantity of farm produce in Connecticut for 1915 with figures for 1914 which affords a means of comparison between the two years. For 1915 the estimated yield of hay is 408,000 tons. In 1914 the yield was 41,000 tons greater.

There will be 4,120,000 bushels of potatoes grown in the state in 1915, according to estimate. This will be less by 250,000 than the yield for 1914.

The estimated yield of tobacco this year is 37,000,000 pounds as against a yield of 35,154,000 in 1914. A remarkable falling off is predicted in the crop of apples. This year the yield is expected to be 1,800,000 bushels, while in 1914 it was 2,500,000 bushels.

Secretary Healey made the statement today that this was the worst year the farmers of the state had known in twenty-five years. The price of produce has been lower than usual Mr. Healey said. This was particularly true in regard to the apples taken to market by the market gardeners. He has seen tomatoes from Bloomfield sold for 30 cents a basket and peaches are selling as low as a basket.

Mr. Healey said the tobacco crop seemed to be unusually heavy. He spoke in praise of the tobacco grown in the towns in the vicinity of Hartford and said he had recently noticed some crops, grown in the open, that were the largest he had ever seen.

The latest statistics showed that the number of farmers in Connecticut was 26,815 and Mr. Healey said they represented a population of 107,280. This total was reached by using the multiple of four.

OBITUARY.

John M. Ulerich.

John M. Ulerich of Wabasah, Ind., a former resident of this city, passed away at his home at Wabasah, Ind., Aug. 23, after only an hour's suffering.

Mr. Ulerich arose early that morning and seemed in his usual health; leaving home about 6:30 o'clock for his work at the paper mill, where he was employed as foreman in the repair department of the coating mill. While walking down the street he suddenly grew faint and fell unconscious to the ground. Nearby pedestrians rushed to his aid and at once removed him to his home, where medical aid was summoned.

After a thorough examination the physician pronounced the case as apoplexy, stating that Mr. Ulerich was suffering from neuritis of the heart. He sank rapidly until the end.

Mr. Ulerich was born in Columbia City, Ind., January 6, 1861, and on April 1, 1888, was united in marriage to Miss Sadie George. He is survived by his wife and four brothers and two sisters, all living in the west.

Mr. Ulerich was a member of the Masons and Odd Fellows, and also a member of the Presbyterian church of Wabasah, Ind.

About the year 1902 Mr. Ulerich was sent to Norwich, Conn., by the company for which he worked, to take charge of improvements at the American Strawboard Co. in Thamesville, where he worked for six years as master mechanic. At the end of that time he was transferred back to his former position, which he retained until his death.

Mr. and Mrs. Ulerich while in Norwich resided on Dunham street, and on Nelson Place. They attended the Central Baptist church and were warm friends of the church, and the aunt of one who was so kind a husband and so staunch a friend to all.

Charles E. Fisk.

Charles E. Fisk, 44 years of age, died at his home in Lebanon, Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock after an illness lasting back to last March. He was the son of Charles E. and Ellen Burke Fisk and was born in Bozrahville, October 8, 1870. On February 12, 1907, he was united in marriage with Miss Jennie Dickson who survives him with two sons, Joseph and Charles Fisk. Mr. Fisk also leaves his parents.

Rev. William Zumbro, of India, who has visited relatives on Church street during the fall is spending some time at Battle Creek, Michigan, on his way east from California.

SKIN TURNS YELLOW

BUT WHO SHOULD WORRY? Million Dollar Corporation to Make Dyes and Chemicals at Chester.

The town of Chester in this state has a million dollar corporation, the Middlesex Chemical Company, Incorporated, with a capital of $1,000,000, divided into 400,000 shares, each of $2.50, 250,000 common. The officers: President, E. M. Davidson; vice president, John T. Hettrick; secretary, F. A. Palen; treasurer, J. J. Conkley; board of directors, —J. P. Davine, Buffalo; Percy C. Magnus, New York, and Messrs. Hettrick, Palen and Davidson.

The concern occupies the so-called "yellow" factory, near the Chester railroad station, about which much has been printed the last few months, and also about which the people of the town have made more or less of a mystery. The company claims to have recently discovered a black dye which will take the place of that heretofore imported from Germany, and of which there is now a serious shortage for manufacturing purposes. It is claimed to be the foundation for aniline dyes of various colors and shades. The concern further claims to have recently turned out the first pure carbolic acid crystals ever obtained in this country, which is said to be of tremendous importance to the dye and acid trade. Heretofore the plant has been worked, it is said, by a group of men, without legal organization, seeking to establish by experiment a business which should overcome the shortage in America of acids and dyes brought about by the European war and prove itself to be of a permanent character. Announcement of the organization of the company indicates that the promoters are satisfied that its experiments will prove successful financially. From the beginning it has been reported in Chester that August Belmont & Co. of New York were interested in the project and it is now announced that that banking house is the fiscal agent of the chemical company. In addition to its other product the company is said to be manufacturing phenol.

A peculiar feature connected with employment in the factory is that after being there a short time the skin of the employees turns a deep yellow. It is an odd sight to see these men, with yellow faces and hands, about the street of the town. The company pays big wages, but has an ever-shifting working force. The present plant occupies a location between the Valley branch railroad tracks and the Connecticut river, with acres of meadow land available for possible expansion, although in danger of overflow in case of an unusual high freshet. Water in unlimited quantity from the nearby river is of particular value to the business of the company.

WELCOME MADDOO'S COTTON LOAN PLAN

Cotton Factors Not Greatly Surprised by Action, but Hail It.

New York, Aug. 24.—Secretary McAdoo's plan to deposit $30,000,000 gold or more in federal reserve banks in the south to help finance the early cotton crop movement was received with favor by traders on the cotton exchange here today. Big cotton factors were not greatly surprised by the announcement, but welcomed it. It was thought that the money should easily care for the usual orders of Australia and Germany which, in the course of a year, amount to about 600,000 bales. No immediate effect was expected or noted today, but a more optimistic tone prevailed in the futures market. It was pointed out, however, that the cotton thus temporarily carried under the treasury department's plan would still have to be reckoned with in the world's markets.

The Ailing Habit.

The eminent Dr. Jacob estimates that the American people spend annually $200,000,000 on patent medicines and quack remedies.

The great success of these nostrums is largely due to the tremendous suggestive power in cunningly directed advertisements, in describing symptoms of the disease which people imagine they have. The patent medicine vendor knows that if he can by the suggestiveness of his advertisements, his testimonials, his circulars, establish sufficient faith in his remedies, his fortune is assured.

There are thousands of people who make a business of reading every medical advertisement they see. They always seem to be hunting for a set of symptoms which will fit their trouble, and they never fail to find them.

Just think of two hundred million dollars being spent annually by the American people for patent medicine! Think of the work that nature is forced to do in order to counteract the vicious effects of these drugs. Who can ever estimate the tragedies, the miseries, the ill-health, the invalidism, the suicides even that might doubtless be traced to the patent medicine habit. Orison Sweet Marden in August, Nautilus.
